BRITTEN SAYS LAST CONGRESS ORPHAN ASYLUM

Claims Recovery Act Has Failed To Recover

New York, Aug. 13.—(P)—Representative Fred A. Britten, Illinois Republican, described the last congress as "an orphan asylum controlled by a man with a big smile" in a radio address tonight.

Representative Britten declared that the national recovery act "has failed to recover."

"The country generally is of the opinion that the NRA has been a failure," he asserted. "With more than ten millions of adults now out of employment and more than sixteen million people on the relief rolls, no one can honestly say that the recovery act has come up to the expectations of its sponsors."

"If the present administration can offer nothing better for the relief of unemployment, than an invisible bread line paid for out of the federal treasury, then it had better try a little old-fashioned horse sense and go back to the constitution."

Americanism On Trial

Asserting that "Americanism is on trial," Britten predicted that "if the present leader of the government concludes that the offerings of his youthful brain trust have been even mildly successful, then we may reasonably expect a fresh coinage of equally revolutionary ideas for presentation to the new congress which convenes in January."

He criticized the administration for "attempting to spend ourselves out of the depression by all sorts of artificial devices."

Likewise attacking the securities act, Britten prophesied that there would be "little or no material expansion in industrial development until this drastic law has been amended."

"Of course, this law as well as others enacted by the last congress will ultimately be held unconstitutional," he said, but in the meantime men may be fined and put into jail for the mere violation of the constantly changing rules and regulations of the commission.

"The man or woman who still has a few dollars in the bank is rightfully worried concerning the future. They would like to know if the president will continue to lean heavily upon the swarm of Felix Frankfurter disciples who now occupy key positions on the country's important commissions which are today controlling practically every walk of American life."

Britten also assailed the "young radicals" in Washington for bringing the United States into the International Labor organization of Geneva.

"A creature of the league of nations, I am satisfied that neither American labor nor industry has anything to win by an alliance of this kind," he said.

Representative Britten spoke under the auspices of the crusaders over an N. B. C. hookup.

MORE SHOWERS ARE PROMISED BY FORECASTER

Believe Long Drought Will Be Broken Soon

By The Associated Press

Hopes of salvaging something from the devastating drought were watered in six agricultural states over the week-end by rain—every drop of it precious.

More showers were promised for some of the central states—Illinois and Indiana—and weather forecasters said that weather changes should be more rapid from now on out, indicating that the long seige of parching sun might be lifting.

Where there were substantial rains, they freshened prospects of getting late crops—the roughage farmers had planted frantically in an attempt to grow some sort of feed for the fall. Scorched pasture lands were given a new lease on life, letting their owners hope that more livestock could be saved out of the drought ruins.

Inch Rain

Rain fell at the rate of one inch in one hour at Hempstead, in sun-scorched Oklahoma, a sight the natives had not seen since June 11. Light rains were general over the state, and in many instances it was the first precipitation large enough to measure in two months.

Nebraska breathed the almost forgotten fragrance of rain-soaked landscape. Cairo, Farwell and Boelus, in the drought-baked central part of the state, had two-inch downpours. The Panhandle region hoped the rains had saved a fair stand of corn, and farmers were able to start fall ploughing.

Clouds hung over Kansas cloaking the brassy sun which had burned the state to a crisp. Heavy rains soaked Valley Falls and Centralia, the former city getting 2.75 inches, and elsewhere in the blistered state there were hopes for showers.

Missouri had scattered showers, bringing temperatures down in the first respite since late June. Roscoe Nunn, state meteorologist, said grain crops were virtually past aid, but said the rains would freshen pastures.

Downstate Illinois had week-end rains as heavy as 2.44 inches. Iowa received random showers.

Generally throughout the drought area the showers had ushered in cooler weather—the mercury dropped as much as 30 degrees in the hottest states. Rates too high to down out chinch bugs or too late to revive wilted grain softened the stony ground for fall ploughing, which had promised to be a back-breaking job.

THREE STITCHES TAKEN IN MAN'S HEART MUSCLE

Surgeons Claim Ellice Wright Will Live Barring Complications

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(P)—Three stitches, taken directly in the heart muscle in a 20-minute operation under local anesthetic by Dr. George Luther Davenport, today saved the life of Ellice Wright, 28.

Wright, stabbed in the heart with an ice-pick in a quarrel with a woman, was taken to Michael Reese hospital in a dying condition. Dr. Davenport said.

Under the Fluoroscope, the heart was distended and displaced. Dr. Davenport said, but from the size of the external wound the heart could not have been large, so that the displacement was believed to be caused by blood. The operation was decided on immediately.

Wright was given a local anesthetic, his chest wall opened and the pericardium, or sack surrounding the heart, was found full of blood of which 300 cubic centimeters was removed with a pump. The wound in the pericardium and that in the heart itself, which was near the apex on the left side, Dr. Davenport said, were sewed up and the patient put to bed. Wright, entirely conscious, watched the operation and talked during it to the doctor.

The blood in the pericardium, the doctor said, interfered with heart action and would have caused death within a short while. Barring complications, Wright is expected to recover.

Insull Aide First to Face Trial

First defendant to go on trial in the criminal cases growing out of collapse of the Insull utilities empire, Marshall E. Sampsell is shown, left, in Chicago court with one of his counsel, Harry S. Ditchbourne. Sampsell was president of the Central Illinois Public Service Company and is charged with embezzling $900 shares of preferred stock of the corporation to cover personal loans when he faced ruin.

Marshall E. Sampsell Admits Using Insull Firm Stock As Collateral For Personal Loan

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(P)—Marshall E. Sampsell, former Insull executive, today admitted in court where he is on trial for embezzlement, that he used 4,000 shares of his company's stock to pledge as collateral for a personal loan.

At the same time he denied any intent to defraud, and asserted that he took the stock only to protect Insull stockholders. He did not profit personally from the transaction, he maintained.

Half of the stock shares of Central Illinois Public Service Company went to the Continental Illinois Bank, which was threatening to sell out stock in Midwest Utilities Company which he had posted as collateral for a loan. The other 2,000 shares went to four Springfield, Ill., banks, he testified.

Obtains Funds.

From the Springfield banks he obtained funds to reduce the amount of a joint loan to him and Martin J. Insull by Chase National Bank, which was threatening to sell other Insull stock collateral, Sampsell related.

The transactions were at the request of Martin Insull, who feared that the bank selling of Insull stock would undermine its market, he told the jury.

"You didn't want Insull stocks to drop, did you?" he was asked by Prosecutor John O'Hara on cross-examination.

"No, but that was not the reason for my actions," replied Sampsell. "I would have been yellow."

He was not being yellow then, was he? he asked, which was owned by the company of which you were president and pledge it for a personal loan?"

"It certainly was," Sampsell threw back in a loud voice.

Sampsell pictured himself as a man who sacrificed his entire personal fortune to protect the stockholders in the companies of which he was an officer or director. All his assets were turned over to creditors, he said.

Sampsell's appearance on the witness stand this afternoon brought to a climax this trial, first of the criminal court hearings that resulted from the Insull utilities collapse two years ago.

He began with a recitation of his life history, starting with his birth at Ashland, O., in 1874. He told of being private secretary to former Federal Judge Jacob Grosscup, then become clerk of the U. S. Circuit Court, director of the reorganization of the Mattoon, Ill., City Railway, vestryman and treasurer of a North Shore suburban church, business executive and finally president of the Central Illinois Public Service Company.

His attorney led him into a discussion of the personal debts to Chicago and Springfield banks which led to the embezzlement charges.

"My collateral with the Continental Bank," Sampsell related, "was not adequate for my loans. One of the secretaries x x x told me if I couldn't put up more collateral they would be forced to sell what collateral they had."

"What was the collateral?" his attorney asked.

"Twenty-two thousand shares of common stock in the Middle West Utilities Company."

He said he had about 40,000 shares of Middle West at the time, besides real estate worth $300,000 and total free assets estimated at a half million dollars.

"Was Middle West Utilities trying to strengthen and support the market at that time?" the lawyer inquired.

"Yes, sir, various strenuous efforts were being made."

"Did you talk to any of the officials at that time?"

"Yes, sir. I think it was the morning of Sept. 18. The bank called me and I had talked to Mr. Martin Insull on a North Western railway train inbound from Louisville."

"I told Mr. Insull that the bank had called me for additional collateral."

DESPERADO IS IDENTIFIED AS 'JOE' PALMER

Texas Convict Says He Has Only 30 Days To Live

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 13.—(P)—Expressing belief he has only "thirty days to live" a man whose identity had baffled local authorities since his arrest Saturday, today admitted to officers that he is Joe Palmer, notorious southwest desperado who escaped from the death house at the state penitentiary at Huntsville, Tex., July 25.

Until today, the prisoner had refused to say who he is. He was tentatively identified after his arrest as Alvin Karpis, S. Paul kidnap suspect. Confronted with prison classification records which officers said proved his identity Palmer today broke his silence and talked freely, telling how he attended the funeral of Clyde Barrow, slain southwest bandit, while officers searching for him stood by.

Willing to Talk

"Tim Palmer," the prisoner told officers with a smile, "I only got thirty days to live, so I might as well talk."

With that he went into detail concerning his activities which ultimately led to his being sentenced to death for a killing during a break at Eastham state prison farm in Texas on the morning of last January 17.

Palmer said he did not know whether or not he killed a guard during the January break but admitted he was "shooting at him."

"They sentenced me to death," he said. "I railroaded me because they threatened witnesses that might have saved me."

While in Joplin, Mo., recovering from a head infection, Palmer narrated, he heard of the death of Barrow and Bonnie Parker, Barrow's accomplice in a series of crimes. He termed Barrow "the best friend I ever had."

"I wanted to go to his funeral and I did," he continued. "I got a pair of smoked glasses and went to Dallas. Out at the old French cemetery I stood in the mob while scores of police, all looking for me, roamed around. x x x then I hit north. x x x was caught in St. Joe (St. Joseph, Mo.) and sent back to Texas to be found guilty of murder and sent to the deathhouse."

After his escape, Palmer said, he kidnapped three persons in Davenport, Ia., before being captured.

SOAP PLANT AT HAMMOND CLOSED FOLLOWING RIOT

Eight Persons Are Injured When Auto Dashes Into Crowds At Gate

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 13.—(P)—A near-riot which followed a successful effort by strike-breakers to enter the picketed soap plant of Lever Bros., in which they drove three cars through the picket line injuring eight persons, resulted today in indefinite closing of the plant.

The 360 workers in the plant have been on strike over seniority rights and a wage increase dispute for nine days. The strike was called by the United Soap and Glycerine Workers' Union and the place was picketed to prevent non-union members employees from going to work.

Today half a dozen pickets were lined up in front of the main entrance, with three Hammond policemen there to maintain order. It had been agreed that the police would stop all cars to give the pickets opportunity to reason with non-union workers.

Suddenly three cars loaded with men shot up to the entrance and, without slackening speed, swung into the driveway. Police and pickets jumped for their lives, but the cars rode down eight, including a woman.

The cars continued into the plant. Police recognized the drivers but decided to let them remain within the plant, fearing that a angry union men outside would harm them if they were brought out.

One of the injured, Frank Miller of Hammond, was seriously hurt the others, including Miss Ann Rauer, received cuts and bruises, some severe.

After the episode, Bruce Vernon, general manager, sent home all men at work in the plant, closing it until further notice.

GUARD SENTENCED

Huntsville, Texas, Aug. 13.—(P)—Prison sentences totaling 15 years were imposed on James A. (Boss) Patterson, prison guard, by a jury which heard him plead guilty today to charges of aiding three condemned desperados to escape from the state penitentiary here July 22.

The brief trial of Patterson, who admitted smuggling three pistols inside the prison walls began immediately after the grand jury indicted him.

PLEADS GUILTY

Camden, N. J., Aug. 13.—(P)—Michael Maggio pleaded guilty today shooting his wife and son to death and was sentenced to five and one-half years in prison.

Maggio, 44, found his wife, Anna, 34, and a son by a previous marriage, Joseph, 21, in a bedroom. He fired seven shots, killing them both.

SET UP RULES FOR NATION'S STOCK MARKET

Exchanges Must Tell World All About Themselves

By J. R. Brackett

Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, Aug. 13.—(P)—The nation's stock exchanges were required today by the federal securities act, and exchange commission to tell the world about themselves as a prerequisite to doing business.

The commission issued its first rules and regulations for the registration of exchanges and listed securities. For the most part, they were searching questions, designed to lay the basis for future and more drastic supervision.

The commission also required that corporations whose securities are now listed must file a registration statement with the SEC. This statement is virtually only a form, to be superseded later with requirements for much more detailed data.

Registration is required of exchanges as a preliminary to doing business. Similarly securities on exchanges must be registered before they can be sold. Registration means simply that exchanges and corporations must file with the commission certain specified information about themselves, which information will be available to the public in general, and on which the public may decide whether to buy or sell securities.

Safeguard Investors.

Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy, at a press conference, said the rules did not as yet constitute safeguards for investors, but they will give the information on which such protection shall be based.

Kennedy emphasized also that the commission's control was no guarantee of the worth of a stock, and that any person who expected government supervision to make the market "go up" when he was long, or down, when he was short, was mistaken.

He said, however, that regulations did make a few absolute requirements of exchanges in conformity with the exchange act. Exchanges must have a rule for the suspension and expulsion of members, and must specifically agree to abide by and enforce the exchange act and the commission's regulations.

Officers, directors and principal stock holders must, beginning in November, inform the commission if they trade in their company's stock. The exchange act provides that profits made from such transactions must go into the company's treasury.

The rules also exempt certain securities from registration and Chairman Kennedy emphasized the exemption of foreign government and corporation securities. It was necessary to exempt these, he said, to protect American investors, who might otherwise suffer if foreign agencies decided not to list their securities.

Kennedy remarked that the information sought of exchanges covered everything "we could think of" but "we may have forgotten something, and this will give us an opportunity to find out." Kennedy said stock exchange officials were somewhat critical, but generally approved the rules and regulations.

He stressed that the absence of actual controlling rules at this time was no indication that such rules will not be issued in the future. They will be, he said, and the apparently lenient action today will furnish the information on which such rules will be based.

The lack of requirements for registering listed securities was based on the law, Kennedy said, which permits several months time for the commission to get into the extremely complicated question of bookkeeping methods.

Questions asked of the exchanges are designed to bring out all conceivable information. They not only go into mechanical operations, but into short selling, manipulation, loans and borrowings of members, margins, odd lot trading, lending of securities, commissions, activities of specialists, and a multitude of other things basically important in determining control of the market.

The problem of exempting small exchanges is answered by requiring that they give information to show their size so the commission may decide in individual cases whether such exchanges need supervision.

A Chance to Work

George E. Allen, a commissioner for the District of Columbia, had the idea that the millions of unemployed in this country wanted only the chance to work. He had heard reports that most of them would not work if they had the opportunity, but he did not believe it. However, he decided to find out for himself.

Mr. Allen put on old clothes and joined the bread lines in several cities. He discovered that most of the thousands of unemployed with whom he came in contact were looking for jobs. All they asked was a chance to earn an honest living. They accepted dole because they were forced to do so.

Mr. Allen also discovered that all the people who work in relief stations are not angels of mercy. He did not like the way some of the workers took applications, or the way they treated the unemployed. His discoveries while playing the part of a "down and outer" are illuminating and should convince the American people that most of the citizens who have been forced onto the relief rolls are worthy and honest.

These people want to work, they want to be respectable and earn their living in some legitimate occupation. There are of course a few who find the bounty of the government almost a luxury, but when the depression ends, these few will still be as worthless as they are now. The majority will not remain on relief any longer than is absolutely necessary, but will take jobs as soon as they can get them.

Memorials For Two

Washington is filled with memorial statues, monuments and plaques. But the two men who probably did most to establish this government of ours and to make Washington the capital of a great nation have no memorials in that city of shrines. Those two men are Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, and James Madison, father of the Constitution. Both were also presidents of the United States. Madison during the War of 1812 when the nation faced a real crisis.

Jefferson was a Democrat and Madison a Republican. The memorials might be erected thru a bipartisan movement in Congress. The man who gave us the truth that people are endowed with certain inalienable rights, "among them life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and the man who fathered the document that has stood for a century and a half as the foundation of the government should have some recognition in imperishable bronze.

Economy of Want

When an expert attached to the agricultural service declared that farmers of the United States should produce 100,000,000,000 pounds more foodstuffs, instead of reducing their output, he and twenty-six workers who had figured with him to prove the necessity for an economy of abundance, were fired. When several newspapers the past week emphasized the proposed abandonment of crop reduction in 1935, because of drought conditions Secretary Wallace said they must have misunderstood him. He has no intention of giving up the economy of scarcity program inaugurated this year.

Yet in the entire country there are more than 1,300 drought-stricken counties. There will be a wheat crop of about half a billion bushels, 100,000,000 bushels short of what the country consumes in a year. The amount of wheat in storage is about 250,000,000 bushels, which means that there will be no shortage this year, but neither will there be much of a surplus next year, and if the drought continues there may be a real shortage.

When Sport is Work

A millionaire sportsman caught a 192-pound tuna off the coast at Liverpool, N. B. He landed the fish after a fight of 62 hours, during which the tuna towed his boat some 300 miles.

The sportsman's yacht stood by during the long battle, and the owner and his cronies took turns handling the rod and line, with the fish at the other end.

Those who took part in the big catch were exhausted when the struggle came to an end. They may have called it great sport, but to us it appears to have been hard work. However, we would like to have several pounds of that tuna, but would be satisfied with a good hunk from a much smaller fish. We can truthfully say that the millionaire and his friends played for great steaks.

He caught the tuna on a regular line attached to a good rod, which was not too heavy. Similar catches have been made in the vicinity of Catalina island off the coast of southern California. Maybe such a catch is worth 62 hours of hard work, but few people can find the time to fish that long at one sitting.

Side Lights

It took more than two years for the state of New York to kill a woman for killing her husband.

Morgan county wants a CCC camp, also we would like to have some of our land bought for recreation purposes.

Ol' Man River has that "low-down feelin'" since the drouth.

You can't sue a man for his opinion, and as a rule you can't make him change it.

Many Germans refuse to swear loyalty to Hitler. Maybe they would rather swear to him.

Employment is to be extended to white collar workers, which will help them to buy clean collars.

You can lead a horse to water and he will drink—if you can find the water.

LESSON-SERMON IS BASED ON "SPIRIT"

"Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-service in all churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 12.

The Golden Text was, "This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel, saying, Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts" (Zechariah 4:6).

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing; the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life" (John 6:63).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Spirit is not separate from God. Spirit is God" (p. 192).

The New Deal in Washington

Spoilsman Ride Roughshod Over Merit System . . . Roper Makes Ludicrous "Cleanup" . . . New Archives Section May Be Tossed to "Lions"—and Jackals.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 13.—Don't let your congressman go telling you there aren't plenty of jobs to be had in Washington. Put him on the spot! The old spoils system, which was logging along steady enough before Roosevelt went away from here, has been flourishing as pervasively in the last few weeks as at any other time since the days of Andrew Jackson.

The Farley-Hurja crew whose task it is to see that all federal jobs are handed out on a political basis has dug its hooks into the new agencies. If you don't believe it, just watch the crowds lined up in the halls outside Democratic national committee headquarters here.

Special rooms have been rented in which to take the applications of job-seekers—and the lists of their political backers—and guards bar outsiders from the long corridor on which lie the many offices of the committee.

Contempt for the merit system was never more bald-faced and obvious.

Applications for Federal Housing Administration jobs are all referred to the national committee. Emil Hurja, Farley's patronage boss, is in full charge.

Merit Advocate Ousted

That's since Bennett Schaeffer, who at first did the FHA hiring, was eased out. Schaeffer was a very minor "brain trust" who insisted on brains and merit.

He was foolhardy enough to ignore recommendations from Hurja, Secretary Hull, and White House Secretary McIntyre. So they booted him out and tossed FHA to the spoilsman.

About 150 persons hired by Schaeffer are in danger of losing their jobs. Unless they can recruit strong political backing, most of them will be accused of being "Republicans" and fired.

The few folks who had hopes for success of the housing program aren't so optimistic now.

For months, the capital has been promised a cleanup of the political gangsters in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce who engineered the defeat of Dr. Willard Thorp, nominated but not confirmed as the bureau's chief.

Roper Makes "Cleanup"

Secretary of Commerce Roper, a veteran politician sometimes known as "Slippery Dan," has just announced a cleanup—of four division chiefs who were unfortunate enough to have been appointed under Hoover.

All had jobs as specialists which could be described as political only—a large stretch of imagination. Roper admitted that the dismissals were no reflection on their abilities and that their successors had political endorsements.

Roper at the same time took pains to praise Assistant Director H. Russell Amory, who acted as his political executioner last year and is commonly credited with leading the Thorp putsch.

He gave assurance that Amory would be kept in the bureau, though every friend of civil service here had assumed that Roper would have to let Amory go to preserve the bureau's usefulness and prestige.

May Be Tossed to Lions

The whole incident tends to strengthen previous suspicions that Roper gave concealed support to the movement against Thorp, who never could understand why good men should be fired to make way for untried political appointees.

Just one other instance—the new Federal Archives Section, created by the recent Congress. It probably will have at least 1,000 employees and not one will be under the merit system—a calculated congressional omission which is one of the boldest attacks on civil service ever made.

The top job is worth $10,000 and historical societies are quietly clamoring to the end that it, at least, will be filled by an able, experienced expert.

The beauty of this situation is that federal archives, now kept in the various departments, are being capably handled by civil service employees who know their jobs and all about the archives.

The way things are going here now, there's no reason to suppose all those employees won't be fired and replaced by political favorites.

Evanston Mother to Come Here for Son: Arouse Suspicion

Two youths, one from Evanston and the other from Niles Center, are being detained at the local police station upon the request of a Mrs. Delaney of Evanston, who is expected to arrive here soon. The boys were picked up Sunday by the local police department when Andrew Harris, of Alexander, reported that the boys acted suspiciously while they were at a filling station.

The boys, Jerry Delaney and Edward Lyons, of Niles Center, had a car pistol in the automobile which they were driving. Local police notified Evanston police that they had the boys and wanted to know whether they were driving a stolen automobile. The Evanston department responded that Mrs. Delaney had been searching since early Saturday for her missing son, and after conferring with Mrs. Delaney, asked the local department to hold the boys until she arrived here.

Harris became suspicious when the boys asked him how they could get into St. Louis without crossing a bridge. He also heard them say that they hoped to enter the city after sundown. They asked Harris where they could camp until darkness.

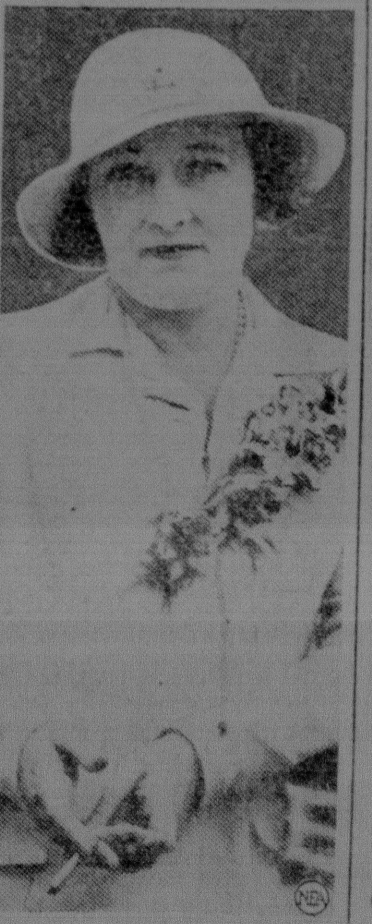

FARMERS BEGIN FALL PLOWING AFTER RAIN; STUBBLEFIELDS TOUGH

Many of the farmers in this vicinity Monday began their fall plowing, taking advantage of the rains which fell Friday night and Saturday. In several places it was reported that the soil had received a great amount of moisture and was in good condition for plowing now.

However, many were experiencing difficulties where they were plowing in stubble fields which had not received quite enough moisture to allow the soil to be turned over easily and the stubble and weeds, burned and dry from the drought, was slowing up the work by clogging up the cutters and plows.

Mrs. John T. Sample Dies at Her Home

Mrs. J. T. Sample passed away at her home nine miles northeast of Jacksonville at 3:30 o'clock Monday morning. Although she had been in failing health for some time, her death comes as a distinct shock to her many friends. She had been confined to her bed since Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Sample was a daughter of the late Charles and Cona Cox. She was born northeast of Jacksonville, Feb. 7, 1856 and had spent her entire life in Morgan county. On October 13, 1875, she was united in marriage with John T. Sample who survives together with a daughter, Mrs. Bertha Hunter, residing in the Sinclair community, and a son, Charles, at home. They resided on their farm until 1906, when they removed to Jacksonville, returning to the farm in 1926.

In early life Mrs. Sample united with the Literberry Baptist church, later transferring her membership to the First Baptist church of Jacksonville, of which she was a devoted member. Her sweet and gentle nature had endeared her to large circle of friends who will regret to learn of her passing.

Mrs. Sample is survived by one sister, Mrs. Hannah Long of Jacksonville; one brother, Charles Cox of Santa Cruz, California, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Eloise Hunter Mason of Sinclair. She is also survived by a number of nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by a grandson, Russell Hunter, who passed away in October, 1917; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Cox Miller and Mrs. Elizabeth Cox and three brothers, Hardin, Jerry, and Ivan.

LIGHTNING PUTS OUT HALF OF WEST END BOULEVARD SYSTEM

For several days it will be necessary to burn only one side of the boulevard light system extending into the west end of the city. The lightning last Friday night burned out a coil and a regulator at the city power plant, and the parts have to be sent away for repairs.

It is the custom to burn the lights on both sides of the street until midnight, and then burn those on only one side until daylight. But this week one side of the system will be burned all night. This change will effect lights on West State street, West College avenue and the intermediary streets in the system.

Law's Long Arm Gets Local Jail Breaker

The long arm of the law fell on the shoulders of Douglas Adams, caught here robbing the Montgomery Ward store, but who escaped the local jail before being brought to trial. The local police department received word of the capture of Adams in Atlantic City, New Jersey, where he is being held on a charge of burglary.

Adams, who entered the Montgomery-Ward store through a skylight, last January, will be returned to Jacksonville for prosecution if the charges preferred against him in Atlantic City are of a lesser degree than those preferred here. The local police department conferred with State Attorney Wilford Amsher regarding the case, and were instructed to notify the Atlantic City department of the decision.

The local department was notified of Adams' arrest by the national bureau of identification, maintained in connection with the Department of Justice. The local department took fingerprints of Adams when he was in custody here, and these checked with prints obtained when he was arrested in New Jersey.

The tree in the Giers yard is a maple and water drips from its foliage each evening in spite of the drought and heat. The cause for the unusual action of the trees is undetermined. Speaker Rainey is Recovering Nicely from Slight Cold

Carrollton, Aug. 13.—Hon. Henry T. Rainey, Speaker of the House, who was recently taken to a hospital in St. Louis on account of a cold and cough, was reported much better Sunday. Because of his indisposition, he was unable to fill speaking engagements last week, and his physicians thought it best for him to rest in the hospital until his cold cleared up.

Mrs. Rainey, who has been with the Speaker in St. Louis, is expected to return home tonight. Mr. Rainey will doubtless be able to resume his speaking tour in a few days. However, he was still in the hospital today.

The speaker was taken to the hospital Friday. Mrs. Rainey said he had a slight touch of pneumonia but has recovered from it. She said he would stay in the hospital to rest for ten days or two weeks.

"He has a rest coming, following the long session of congress," Mrs. Rainey said.

St. Louis, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Physicians today said Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey of Carrollton, Ill., was "doing nicely" at DePaul hospital, where he is resting following bronchial trouble, and that his condition was not regarded as serious.

It is expected, they said, Speaker Rainey will remain in the hospital through this week.

Launching U. S. Housing Drive

FIRST housing problem to confront Housing Administrator James A. Moffett was that of finding Washington quarters large enough for his big office staff. That accomplished, here he is at his desk as he launched the government's $15,000,000,000 home renovation drive to put 5,000,000 men to work and revive the building trades by encouraging and assisting bankers in extending liberal loans to American home owners.

E. A. DANIELS INJURED IN SPRINGFIELD CRASH

E. A. Daniels, formerly a member of the local police department, was injured Sunday morning at Springfield during a collision of two cars at the entrance to Lincoln park on North Fifth street.

Daniels was riding with A. A. Chamberlain, of Jacksonville, and the other machine was said to have been driven by Charles Brockelsby, of Edinburg. Following the collision, Daniels was taken to the Springfield hospital by F. G. Hester. His injuries consisted of lacerations to the scalp.

Grace Church Doings

The guest preacher at the Sunday morning service was the Rev. Thomas J. M. Crapp of Beardstown. He preached with earnestness upon the theme "Finding God." Miss Charlotte Seiber was the soloist.

During the devotional period of the school, Milford Forward presented a vocal number accompanied by Miss Clemmons. School attendance was 231 and the offering $8.27.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the home of Mrs. W. H. Coking.

The mid-week prayer service on Wednesday evening will be led by Rev. George Hayes of this city. It is expected that Dr. Havighurst will be back in his pulpit next Sunday.

Wins Senatorial Primary at 29

Though he is only 29 years old, Rush D. Holt won a sweeping victory in the Democratic senatorial primary in West Virginia, soundly beating Clem Shaver, choice of Postmaster General Jim Farley. Holt, a youthful prodigy who had the support of the organized miners, was regarded as more enthusiastic for the New Deal even than Shaver.

Tigers and Yankees to Open Important Series With Twin Bill Today; Yanks Favorites

By Alan Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor.
New York, Aug. 13.—(P)—Riding the crest of the baseball season's most sensational winning streak, the rampant Detroit Tigers come to town tomorrow to begin a five-game series with their arch rivals, the second-place New York Yankees. They are scheduled for a double-header tomorrow, followed by three successive single games, in a battle that should go a long way toward deciding the outcome of the American league pennant race.

Under the dynamic leadership of Mickey Cochrane, in his first year as catcher-manager, the Tigers start their final swing around the eastern half of the circuit fortified by a lead of four and one-half games. This advantage has been built up during a 12-game winning streak that has electrified the baseball public generally and aroused the greatest baseball enthusiasm Detroit has known since its last pennant-winning days, 25 years ago.

Despite the sharp contrast between the inspired rush of these battering Bengals, batting at an amazing .310 clip and the highly erratic performances lately of the Yankees in quest of their eighth pennant since 1921, Broadway betting commissioners tonight made the New Yorkers favorites in the series.

The theory seems to be that the Yankees, well known for their recuperative powers, will rise to the challenge on home grounds, while the Tigers may experience a reaction from their swift pace. Jack Doyle quoted 7 to 10 against the Yankees for the opening game of tomorrow's double-header and even money against the Tigers. Doyle's book showed 2-1-2 to 1 against the Yankees winning the series and 3 to 1 against the Tigers on the same proposition.

The Tigers will be a 1 to 2 shot to win the pennant, however, if they succeed in taking at least three out of the five games, Doyle predicted.

Yankee officials anticipated a turnout of close to 40,000 fans for the double bill. Vernon (Lefty) Gomez and Charles (Red) Ruffing are expected to be the Yankees' choices to hurl against Tommy Bridges and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe.

Detroit, Aug. 13.—(P)—Detroit's Tigers, idols of a baseball mad city, entrained for New York tonight, their claws sharpened and every man confident—from manager Mickey Cochrane down to bat boy Albert Willis—that they will win the "crucial" series with the Yankees, opening tomorrow.

Lynwood Rowe, the Arkansas "schoolboy" and "general" Alvin Crowder, the Washington Senators' catch-off, are the probable pitching selections for tomorrow's doubleheader that starts Detroit's final eastern invasion.

The Tigers lead the Yanks by four and one-half games and manager Cochrane refuses to concede that the New York series is any more "crucial" than any other. Just the same he sent Rowe and Crowder ahead last night to get all the rest possible. That is a practice usually reserved for world series engagements and the like.

"Bridges, Sorrell and maybe Rowe again," Cochrane said. "It all depends on how the series looks."

About that winning streak, which now stands at 12 straight, Cochrane wishes "we could keep it up for the rest of the season," but admits it is being run on a day-to-day basis and he wouldn't be much surprised to see it end any time now.

The Tigers start their final swing through the east with a record of 32 victories out of 54 games played with the Seaboard Clubs. They have won seven and lost six with New York.

Their record against western clubs shows 39 victories out of 54 games.

CARDINALS WHIP TIGERS 7 TO 1

Detroit, Aug. 13.—(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals scored three runs in the first inning on two singles and a home run by Medwick, then went on to defeat the Tigers 7 to 1 behind the five-hit pitching of "Wild Bill" Hallahan in an exhibition game here today.

The Cards found Clarence "Red" Phillips, youngest member of the Tiger pitching staff, for 16 safeties and the score would have been larger except for sparkling fielding, featured by double plays in the second, third and fourth innings. There were numerous substitutions in both line-ups.

It was the second time the Tigers had bowed to the Cards in exhibition games this summer.

CUT GAS ALLOWANCE

Detroit, Aug. 13.—(P)—The rules committee of the American Automobile Association, meeting here to consider regulations for the 1935 Indianapolis 500-mile race, decided today that cars entered in next year's contest will be allowed only 42 1-2 gallons of fuel, a reduction of two and one-half gallons.

The change was announced by Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of the rules committee.

Cars in the 1934 race were restricted to 45 gallons and the first ten to finish averaged 13.4 miles to the gallon. Bill Cummings, the winner, used only 35 1-2 gallons for the 500 miles.

It Won't Be Long Now

What's that thunder? 'Tis the thud of pickles against cleated dogs, and heralds the approach of the football season. Gridders along all fronts are in training, and here we see one, big Ken Carpenter, one of Southern California's 1934 huskies, totting around several sacks of sawdust with which the Trojans' playing field is being repaired. All Howard Jones' boys are helping around the stadium and campus as part of their training grind.

Turns In Three Sparkling Rounds of Golf to Capture Title Held by His Brother

Jerome Barber, high school champion and second place winner in the Illinois High School golf tournament this spring, turned in three sparkling rounds of golf in the final 36 holes of the Nichols Park Open tournament Sunday to win the crown held by his brother, Willie Barber, with a total of 278 strokes. Floyd Craft, a 72 hole medal play tournament, stamped him as one of the leaders, finished in second place, 15 strokes back of the winner.

Firing his way over the rain damped and soggy fairways, the high school champion set a blistering pace to match the rays of the sun which sent up steam during the first 27 holes of the final 36. Out in 35 on the first nine, Jerome came tearing home with a 33 for a 68 for his morning's effort. Still banging the ball straight down the fairways, the champ dropped his ball on the outgoing nine of the final for a 34, before weakening. He finished with a 38, still far in front of the field.

Craft, who holds the city championship and the park match play title this year, was unable to get under a 37 during the final nine holes. He poked out two 37s, a 38 and a 39 for the final effort.

Willie Barber, the defending champion, finished fourth in the field of nine players, requiring 12 more strokes than he used last year when he won the title. James Miller, another member of the Jacksonville high golf team of the past season, jumped into third place by one stroke, turning in a 307 to Willie's 308.

Stark Injures Leg
Harold Stark, one of the veterans of the tournament, was forced to drop out of competition during the first round of the morning when he injured his leg while driving off the number five tee. The leg was said to have been thrown out of place when Stark wound up to begin his drive. He was removed to his home by friends.

Only nine of the 16 players entered completed the 72 holes. The course, thoroughly soaked by the Friday night and Saturday rains, made playing conditions somewhat different from the conditions for the past month, and scores founted accordingly. Jerome Barber's sizzling shots, which looped into the air, both high and low depending upon the need of the moment, put him out in front rapidly during the final 36 holes.

The low eight scorers, with one possible exception, will meet a team of eight players from the Country Club next Sunday in a match for the city championship. The city title will be decided on a medal play basis this year, with the two teams of eight golfers firing 18 holes over each course, the title going to the low scoring golfer.

Jerome Barber's card for the final 36 holes:

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(P)—Rumors that Lincoln Fields may not operate this season were exploded today when officials of the race track paid the remainder of their license fee, $38,250, and posted their ticket bond for the 30-day term, starting September 3.

SEEDED PLAYERS WIN MATCHES

By Bob Cavanaugh
Associated Press Sports Writer
Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(P)—Playing on rain-soaked courts as slippery as a dance floor, the eight seeded American and foreign stars, paced by Champion Helen Jacobs, today survived the first round of the 47th annual women's national tennis championship.

Miss Jacobs opened the tournament by whitewashing Marjorie Sachs of the Cambridge, Mass., in straight sets without the loss of a game.

Miss Jacobs' brilliant showing, coming a little more than two weeks after her defeat in the final of the Seabright invitation tournament, served to dispel the fears of some who had visions of the title crossing the Atlantic this year with Betty Nuthall, the bounding English star who turned the trick in 1930.

Miss Nuthall eliminated Fricia Mervin of Los Angeles with almost equal despatch, 6-1, 6-1.

Two of the champion's chief native threats, Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., and Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles, seeded second and third, respectively, in the American group, gained the second round. Miss Palfrey defeated Ruby Bishop of San Marino, Calif., 6-0, 6-0, while Miss Babcock met with stubborn opposition from Josephine Cruikshank of Santa Ana, Calif., 6-1, 6-4.

The meeting between the Misses Babcock and Cruikshank, who rank sixth and sixth, produced one of the finest displays of the day.

Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., the fourth seeded homebred, won her first round match, eliminating Jean Burritt of Toronto, Canada, 6-0, 6-2, as did the three other seeded visitors, Katherine Stammers and Freda James of England, and Elizabeth Ryan, a Californian who has lived and played in England many years.

Miss Stammers, making her first appearance on American courts, disposed of Helen Pederson, Stamford, Conn., 6-3, 7-5. Miss James conquered Mrs. Virginia S. of Buffalo, 6-2, 6-1, and Miss Ryan took the measure of Eunice Dean of San Antonio, Texas, 6-2, 6-2.

Miss Nuthall and Miss James will open defense of their American doubles title tomorrow against a field comprising 25 teams. They were placed at the top of the seeded teams which include Elizabeth Ryan and Muriel Thomas and Katherine Stammers and Katharine Winthrop of Boston.

The seeded American list was topped by the team of Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey, followed in order by Miss Babcock and Miss Andrus, Miss Cruikshank and Miss John Van Ryan of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Whitfield Painter of Dedham, Mass., and Virginia Rice of Boston.

Woodland Inn Wins from Morgan Indees

Pacotti Features Victory of Inn Team with Fielding, Hitting

The Woodland Inn baseball team defeated a team composed largely of Morgan Indee and Lynnville A. C. players on the Woodland Inn diamond Sunday afternoon by a score of 7 to 5 before a large crowd.

Jim Wagner was in great form for the Woodland team allowing only six safeties, only one of which went for extra bases. He struck out five men and was in trouble only in the fifth frame when the Indees pushed across five tallies. Ed Lawless, on the mound for the Indees pitched brilliant ball in spots, striking out ten, but allowing eleven safe hits.

The spectacular play of Tony Pacotti on shortstop for the Woodland Inn was undoubtedly the feature of the game. The Illinois college lad handled 7 assists and three putouts without a bobble and also came through with a home run and a single out of three trips to the plate driving in three runs.

Athletics Score Nine Runs In First Inning And Beat Washington Senators 9-0

Washington, Aug. 13.—(P)—With a nine-run deluge in the first inning, the Philadelphia Athletics today coasted to a 9 to 0 victory over the Washington Senators in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader.

The second game was postponed when the light drizzle that started at the outset of the first contest, stopped, resumed and turned into a heavy rain.

The Athletics fell on three pitchers during the inning, collecting ten hits, including three doubles, off Al Thomas, Jack Russell and 39-year old Alec McColl. After Jimmy Fox had hit the last double and driven in the final run off McColl, the veteran hurler held the A's to six scattered hits during the remainder of the contest.

With his long lead, Johnny Marcum merely breezes by his seventh victory of the year. He let the Senators down with eight hits, scattered over six innings. Roger Cramer led the Athletics' attack with three singles and a triple while Fox collected a double in three official trips to the plate. He was walked purposely twice.

Dr. Scrimger Gives Unique Message at Union Church Meet

The union evening service on the lawn at Grace church Sunday night was unusually well attended. Dr. George M. Scrimger preached a unique sermon on "Garments of Strength and Beauty." During the course of the sermon, Dr. Scrimger led the audience in singing some of the familiar gospel hymns. The hymns were chosen to trace the course of a Christian from his first spiritual aspirations down through the various experiences of life, and finally to the heavenly home.

Rev. E. A. Houldridge of Murrayville presided. Rev. C. W. Meeker read the Scripture lesson, Rev. M. L. Pontius made the prayer, and Rev. C. H. Thrall concluded the service with prayer and the benediction. Next week Rev. Cedric M. Powell of the Brooklyn church will preach. Dr. M. L. Pontius will preside. The following is a summary of Dr. Scrimger's message:

"Awake, Awake, put on thy strength, O Zion, put on thy beautiful garments. On Jerusalem, the Holy City." Isaiah 62:1.

Topic—"Garments of Strength and Beauty."

The Prophet regards the church as asleep. While I do not believe in soul-sleep between death and the Resurrection, I am compelled to believe, that there is considerable soul-sleep on the part of Christians this side of the grave." The speaker drew a comparison between physical and spiritual slumber. God calls in clear tones for the church to arouse from this spiritual sleep. While much mystery attaches to what we call the intermediate state, I emphasize what I call, the intermediate period between the awakening from spiritual sleep, and the putting on of the garments of strength and beauty spoken of in the text. I call this "the intermediate state of Penitence. God will restore the joys of His great salvation to the awakened penitent spiritual sleeper. I will take out of God's spiritual wardrobe for examination four of the garments of strength and beauty, which God would have His church put on. First—The garment of Christian song. Fourth—The garment of activity in soul-saving. The loom in which these garments are woven, is the Holy Spirit. We furnish the human, and God the Divine material, while the Holy Spirit with dextrous hand, plies to and fro His shuttle, and weaves these garments. We are to furnish the best we have of human material. Christ is the perfect pattern after which these garments are to be woven. Oh, the rich wardrobe of spiritual forces all about us. Science and Art are reaching out into nature's wardrobe, and putting on these material garments of strength and beauty. There is no excuse for a weak church spiritually. Christ has come all the way from Heaven to teach us the art of putting on these garments. If the church of America, will only put on these garments we may be able to best we have of human material. Christ is the perfect pattern after which these garments are to be woven. Oh, the rich wardrobe of spiritual forces all about us. Science and Art are reaching out into nature's wardrobe, and putting on these material garments of strength and beauty. There is no excuse for a weak church spiritually. Christ has come all the way from Heaven to teach us the art of putting on these garments. If the church of America, will only put on these garments we may be able to

MUD LARKS HAVE OUTING AT GOSHEN

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP)—The opening of the six day grand circuit meeting at Good Time Park today furnished an outing for the mud larks. The course was so heavy from heavy rains that the start was delayed an hour until it was worked into safe condition.

The feature was the $1,000 stake for two year old pacers, like the other two events one of split heats. The favorite, Aunt Ida, won the first heat but in the next two was beaten by Doris Hanover, owned by Holsapple and Garner of Copax Falls, N. Y., and driven by Lyman Brule. The two heat winners raced off the third heat in 2:37 3-4, the lowest heat raced on the grand circuit in many years.

The Progressive stake for trotters, third division, was won by Joy Lincoln, a half mile track trotter owned by E. J. Robbins of Bayshore, L. I., and driven by Alie Cornwell. Gay Peter won the first heat. The purse event for 2:30 pacers was won by Onasaga after Highland Worthy had won the first heat in a drive from Calumet Devine.

SENATORS MAY SIGN PITCHER

Washington, Aug. 13.—(AP)—The Washington Senators may try to pull themselves out of the depths of the American league by a set of whiskers. Allen Benson, recent star of the House of David team of Benton Harbor, Mich., has been invited by Clark Griffith, Washington president, to work out at the stadium tomorrow and has been told that if he produces he will be signed.

Benson was signed two days ago by Joe Cambria of the Albany International League club after he had struck out a dozen men in a game the House played with the Harrisburg Senators of the New York-Penn league.

Cambria, here today, told Griffith the bewhiskered hurler had promise. Ready to try anything to better the club standing, Griffith asked that Benson be sent here for inspection.

KEN MEENAN IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Denver, Colo., Aug. 13.—(AP)—An operation was performed tonight on Ken Meenan, halfback prospect, at the University of Illinois who is in a hospital here with injuries suffered in a highway accident.

Meenan's left leg and foot were crushed Aug. 5 when the motorcycle he was riding was struck by an automobile in Estes Park. The youth contracted blood poisoning as the result of his injuries.

Physicians said his condition was critical and that even if he recovers, he will not be able to take part in athletics again.

Meenan had been employed in Rocky Mountain National Park as a forest ranger and was riding a motorcycle as a part of his duties.

Meenan formerly attended northwestern University and played on the school's football team until he was suspended for marrying. He then transferred to Temple University at Philadelphia and later shifted to Illinois, where he was to have been eligible for gridiron competition this season.

The Gibson, one of San Francisco's most popular cocktails of the old days, contained an onion, among other ingredients.

Mauri Rose Added to Fair Race Field

Second Place Winner from Indianapolis Will Race at Capital

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 13.—With the name of Mauri Rose, famous Jewish driver from Dayton, Ohio, and second place winner at Indianapolis added to the list of entries for the 100-mile national championship AAA Illinois State Fair auto races for Saturday, August 25, indications loom bright for the greatest field of race stars that has ever competed in the Midwest.

Rose has risen in the past three years like a meteor and made his greatest bid for fame while running in first place at Indianapolis this year, until finally due to hard handling of his car, Wild Bill Cummings, the nemesis of all the stars, roared into victory with the doughty Daytonian hard on his heels.

On the hard surfaced speedways of Indiana and Ohio, Rose has built up a great reputation, being the special scourge at Winchester, Indiana, last year. He also won at Milwaukee in 1933.

At Indianapolis this year Rose ran in second place from 75 to 175 miles, took the lead shortly before the 200 mile mark and maintained it for more than 100 miles, went back in the lead before 375 miles to stay there for over 50 miles, only to be nosed out by the victory Cummings.

Rose if he should win here can almost equal Cummings' point standing should "Wild Bill" have hard luck at the state fair races. Then the rubber run off would be at Syracuse, N. Y., the following week.

This "Wild Jewish Rose" can be counted on to give a good account of himself as he is rated "dynamite" on mile tracks.

Boston Honors Babe Ruth In Farewell Appearance

Boston, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, unfortunately the portly Babe, who ambled on to the same field in 1914, a long thin-necked, gawky rookie from Baltimore, couldn't rise to the great occasion as he was wont to do in the past. In such a setting the Babe for years has been accustomed to click a few for his people.

There were valleys of cheers for him as he singled and then doubling in the first game, which Wes Ferrell won for the Sox 6 to 4.

The Babe walked twice in the second game, won by the Yanks 7 to 1, and after grounding out once left the game.

CHICAGO FIRM TO TAKE OVER PEORIA LIFE BUSINESS

Offer Is Approved By Judge Joseph E. Dailey In Circuit Court

Peoria, Aug. 13.—(P)—The offer of the Life and Casualty company of Chicago to take over the business of the bankrupt Peoria Life Insurance company was approved today by circuit court judge Joseph E. Dailey. Judge Dailey said he would give the contract his signature when a few minor changes are made.

The acceptance of the offer was recommended by C. V. O'Hern, receiver for the Peoria company, which went into receivership last fall.

M. A. Kirk, president of the Chicago company, said the contract was in effect a 14 year management policy. His company, he said, agreed to assume payment of all death claims for ten years from the date of receivership.

The contract, said Kirk, provides for a 50 per cent adjustable lien, which the Chicago company hopes to remove entirely in eight to ten years. All earnings realized from the Peoria company's business will be placed in a special fund for the benefit of Peoria company policy holders.

Kirk said if his company is able to reduce the lien to $5 or less per thousand within 10 years it will pay the remainder of the lien and take over the business.

Judge Dailey set August 21 for the submission of the revised contract and indicated that he would sign it at that time if the minor changes have been made.

IRISH FARMERS OPPOSE TAX SALE

Cork, Irish Free State Aug. 13.—(P)—Farmers of County Cork 5,000 strong, took the offensive against police today in an effort to prevent a tax sale and were repulsed only after a terrific battle in which one farmer was killed and 25 others wounded seriously enough to require hospital treatment.

The policemen were attacked as they were guarding a yard where cattle taken from two farmers for failure to pay land taxes were being sold. Ultimately the defending force was augmented by a military detachment.

A feature of the battle was a spectacular charge of twelve men in a motor lorry, which plunged at top speed through a cordon of police around the barricaded cattle yard.

One of the wounded men was in a serious condition tonight with a bullet wound in the lungs. Five others were shot, and the rest were injured by police clubs.

GANGLAND GUNS CLAIM THREE

Chicago, Aug. 13.—(P)—Gangland guns claimed three victims in the last 24 hours in shootouts typical of the prohibition era when crime was most rampant.

Jerry Pilot, 29, reputedly a former alcohol runner, slumped over a lunch counter when a lone killer, masked by a handkerchief, fired five bullets at close range early today. Fearful the "rob" was incomplete, the killer cruised by with companions as Pilot was being carried from the restaurant and poured another barrage toward the sidewalk, wounding a passerby. He died several hours later. In a garage where he worked, Robert "Pud" Stamm, 26, fell dead early today when two men opened fire on him after an argument. He had served a six year term for manslaughter.

His head torn by a shotgun charge, Tony Imperio, 26, former bellboy on a lake steamer, was found dead in an alley.

WOULD RETURN HAPSBURG TO THRONE, CLAIM

Former Empress Zita Is Described By Leaders As "Fast Worker"

By Harold P. Braman
Associated Press Foreign Staff
London, Aug. 13.—(P)—The former Empress Zita, described by diplomats as a "fast worker," was said today by an authoritative source to be going ahead with her efforts to bring about restoration of the Hapsburg throne in Austria despite objections from the little entente nations.

Italian officials were said by the same source to have suggested that Zita go slowly in her negotiations on the continent looking toward making her son, the Archduke Otto, a king.

While British official quarters declined to discuss the monarchical plans, they ridiculed reports that Otto, now in Sweden, might try to marry a Swedish princess.

"An Italian princess still remains the probable consort if his plans for the throne ever get anywhere," one diplomat said.

Another high source described Otto's present journey in the Scandinavian countries as mere "dust in the eye to mask Zita's real negotiations in Italy, France and elsewhere."

High diplomatic sources here said that the Bourbon-Parma family fortune, estimated at $100,000,000, is being used to back Otto.

QUINTUPLETS TO HAVE NEW HOME

Callander, Ont., Aug. 13.—(P)—The new home of the Dionne quintuplets, it was announced today is to be "the Dafoe Hospital" named in honor of Dr. A. R. Dafoe, who attended at the birth of the five little girls eleven weeks ago today and has seen them every day since.

The building, now under construction, is expected to be ready September 1 when it will be opened ceremoniously.

Even the parents of the children will not be allowed to visit the building, and the babies will be kept isolated there as long as they need constant medical attention.

Dr. Dafoe reported the babies had made an aggregate gain of 9 3/4 ounces in weight during the past 24 hours, each of the children having shared in the increase.

Public contributions and donations from Ontario manufacturers made possible construction of the new home, said W. H. Alderson, executive of the Red Cross society.

Jerseyville

A rare old law book was found this week in the library of the late Attorney Gerald G. Reardon by the administrator of his estate, Attorney N. G. Reardon. The volume is a copy of the laws of Illinois for 1838-39.

On the back of the front cover is plainly written in old fashioned style the words "Harriot's office," placed there apparently by the aid of a goose quill pen.

Harriot was elected State Representative of this district in 1844 and was chosen school commissioner in 1847. He moved to Tazewell county in 1849 and was elected circuit judge there to succeed Judge David Davis in 1857. He was the first judge of the old 21st circuit, including at that time the counties of Tazewell, McLean, Mason and Cass. He filled the office for a period of ten years. His death occurred in 1869.

Lee Brown of Jerseyville was taken to Vandallia Saturday morning by Sheriff B. L. McDow to begin serving a year's sentence at the State Farm. Brown was picked up Thursday for violation of parole. Some time ago he was arrested on a charge of larceny. He was paroled on condition that he remain away from Jersey county. Brown returned and was picked up.

H. W. Henson, veteran thresherman of Ottaville, was in Jerseyville Saturday morning and reported that he had been engaged since the first of August filling silos.

"I have been working at the racket for thirty years," Henson stated "and this is the first time in my experience that I ever started silage cutting the first of August."

"Usually we begin filling silos about the tenth of September. It is fully six weeks ahead of time this season. But the situation is so critical from the standpoint of feed for livestock that the farmers have been obliged to take the action they have."

"The corn quite generally is very poor and with very few ears. It will make silage of a fair quality, however."

Heads Drouth Group

Farm Adviser C. T. Kibler has been appointed temporary drouth relief director for the county of Jersey as a result of the action of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Jersey county recently was removed from the secondary drouth classification by the federal government and placed in the emergency relief column with Madison county.

The first car of grain was shipped to Jersey county Friday under the drouth relief regulations. The consignment was made to the Jersey County Grain company and was eagerly snapped up by farmers in need of feed. Under the government plan the emergency grain is shipped to drouth stricken areas and farmers may buy it without being obligated to pay freight on the same.

Shipments of drouth relief grain and feed may be made in car lots to individuals or to groups through some central organization for distribution.

JUDGMENT ENTERED AGAINST G. LOPARTZ

A judgment for $5,287.70 was entered Monday against George Lopartz in the Morgan County Circuit Court by Judge Walter Wright. Christine K. Meyer of Sangamon county, alleged that two years ago she loaned Lopartz $4,925 on a judgment note, bearing six percent interest, to be paid in two years. She further alleged that she had received from the defendant only $450, and that there was due her $4,475 plus interest and attorney fees. The defendant confessed the note when the evidence was taken.

HUGE ROCK SLIDE IS REPORTED AT NIAGARA FALLS

Estimated Gigantic Pile Will Weigh 30,000,000 Pounds

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(P)—A gigantic pile of rock estimated to weigh 30,000,000 pounds rose above the water in Niagara Gorge tonight, visible evidence of the first major rock slide from Horseshoe Falls.

The rock fall changed the contour of the Falls considerably. It also altered the course of the turbulent water of the upper rapids, sending more water toward the American side.

Water was flowing over what yesterday was dry dock as sightseers thronged to the shore of Goat Island in an effort to obtain a view of the jagged, saw-like rim of the Falls and the huge pile beneath it. But mist obscured the view.

The huge chunk fell from the cataclysm today with a deafening roar that seemed to still the sound of water pouring over the precipice. The rock landed in the gorge, sending a spout of water more than 200 feet into the air.

The lip of one of America's wonders lifted as if from a charge of dynamite, heaved, groaned and slid away with a roar. Where there was only a dribble of water yesterday a huge stream began to pour.

John H. Jackson, general manager of the Queen Victoria park maintained by the Canadian government on that side of the Falls, estimated the rock weighed 15,000 tons.

The ledge at the foot of the Falls, Jackson said, is huge and some of the pieces of rock are 30 feet square. Others seem to be about 50 feet thick.

Horatio Collins, assistant chief of the reservation police, estimated the slide was 200 yards wide and 50 feet or more deep. He was the only person who witnessed it.

South Main Paving Bulges Near Morton

South Main street, recently completed with a new concrete-asphalt-paved, buckled Sunday when pressure from a leaking service water main near Morton avenue forced the bricks upward. The street department and the city administration was notified and Monday planned to break thru the pavement to effect repairs.

The break is the first to be made in the new street.

The city paving, which withstood the ravages of the flood wave, apparently were unable to "take it" when water suddenly descended Friday and Saturday. The wooden block paving on College avenue erupted in 11 places during the week end. Superintendent Joseph Gomez reported to Mayor W. A. Wainwright Monday morning the department spending the day making repairs.

The street department also was called upon Sunday to remove a large branch which fell from a tree on South Clay avenue, blocking the thoroughfare.

WOULD IMPEACH HIGH OFFICIALS IN LOUISIANA

Special Session of Assembly May Be Called Today Leaders Claim

New Orleans, Aug. 13.—(P)—It was learned from an authoritative source today that a special session of the Louisiana legislature may be called for tomorrow for impeachment of certain high officials in New Orleans.

The rumored action was interpreted as another phase of the struggle between Senator Huey P. Long and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley for control of politics in the city.

Governor Allen was reported out of Baton Rouge and was presumably in New Orleans, but could not be located for comment. Senator Long could not be reached.

A source close to the administration said that impeachment action likely would be taken against Mayor Walmsley and certain other office holders in the city.

Meanwhile the government indicted Jack Pizzoloto, St. Charles Parish Deputy Sheriff, for perjury in connection with testimony he gave before a federal grand jury reported to be investigating income tax returns of Senator Long and some of his political associates.

A new board of assessors for the city moved into their offices and announced they were ready to displace the board elected in January with Walmsley's support. The mayor said the new board would not be recognized.

Old Man Humidity Walks Into Local Weather Picture

Old Man Humidity walked into the local weather picture Sunday and Monday, preventing the weather man from bringing the relief that usually accompanies cooler temperatures. For the first time in several days the thermometer Monday failed to get over the 90 degree mark at noon, but the relief was not as great as was expected.

According to the Norbury Sanatorium weather report, the humidity Monday was 63 per cent. One-hundred percent means some kind of precipitation, either fog, dew or rain. Dr. P. P. Norbury explained. The percentage was computed from the readings taken from two thermometers, the local bureau losing its regular humidity implement in the July 10 storm.

Temperature at noon Monday was 89, mounting from a low of 69 registered during the night. But it was a sticky, moist, forming on the brows of local citizens and remaining bringing coolness.

The city was visited with one of the heaviest dews recorded during the year last night. Early in the evening little globules of water collected on parched but limber dew grass. Early Monday morning the dew had collected in sufficient quantities to lead local people to believe that another rain had fallen quietly during the night.

EDWARD A. HAYES SPEAKS IN FRISCO

San Francisco, Aug. 13.—(P)—Five thousand delegates to the state American Legion convention today roared approbation of their national commander, Edward A. Hayes, of Decatur, Ill., at Acting Governor Frank Merriam and Mayor Angelo Rossi as each denounced what they termed subversive influences seeking to undermine the American government by violence.

The applause apparently pointed to adoption at tomorrow's session of resolutions calling for a new treason act and flying communists. The treason resolution requests a law providing for death for foes of the government or five to 100 years imprisonment.

Another resolution sent to committee for consideration and expected to be reported to the convention floor tomorrow for action would denounce Secretary of Labor Perkins for her asserted failure to report aliens and calls for the transfer of that duty to the department of justice.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

SYNOPSIS

The depression did not alter life at "Hawthorn," the comfortable, hospitable home of the Philip Rutledges. Caroline, their lovely daughter, entertained lavishly and the younger set swarmed there. Mrs. Rutledge spends most of her time abroad and her husband practically lives at the club. Following her mother's return from one of her trips, Caroline gives a party. The pampered Alva notes how capably her daughter has arranged everything and wishes she could feel happier about it. Caroline's parents disapprove of their daughter's fiancé, Howard Dunsforth. Years ago, Howard's father bought property from Philip saying he wanted it for a leather factory and instead he went into the soap business in competition with Philip. The families have been enemies ever since.

At the height of the party, Philip arrives with the news that Henry Dunsforth has ruined him. Howard seems genuinely shocked. Discussing the effect of the distressing news, Howard tells Caroline: "If we marry, my father will cut me off and if I know you it wouldn't please you any more to be poor than it would me." "Is that what you think of me?" Caroline flashes back. "Well, you are wrong. I'd have been happy with you any where before you said that."

A scornful gesture, she hands him his engagement ring. After Howard leaves, Caroline is broken-hearted. Another crushing blow falls when her father tells her "Hawthorn" is no longer their home. Alva is shocked to learn their new home is on Edge Street, the wrong side of town. Caroline looks at her weeping mother and dejected father. She had never attributed strength to her mother, but she expected her to lead them. "Why don't you cry with her, father?" Caroline asks. Alva gasped. Philip winced.

CHAPTER VI

Caroline had got what she wanted—their attention. "I'm sorry," she said tensely, "but you had to be made conscious of yourselves. If the boat is sunk, there's no use wasting your energy in tears. Mother, it looks as though we'll have to swim to Father's raft."

"Be facetious if you like," her mother sobbed. "It's quite different for you; you'll be marrying the money your father has lost. But you can't," she added bitterly. "Imagine that Howard is the kind of man to help his wife's family."

"No," Caroline said slowly. "I can't. Howard, I should say, will never be in the position where help for his wife's family would be required of him."

Her mother was taken by surprise and puzzled too. "I'm glad," she said frigidly, "that you are beginning to understand the young man, but I hardly expected you to think of turning your back on your father and me—if that is what you mean."

"I don't. I shan't desert you. I mean that Howard is not likely to have a wife whose parents are in need of help."

"Are you trying to say that your parents are not in need of help?" "No, Mother dear, I'm merely trying to say that Howard is not going to marry a poor girl—not me at any rate."

Mr. Rutledge stiffened. "What is this you are saying, Caroline? Did that young..." Caroline stopped him. "I broke the engagement myself," she explained.

"What an idiotic thing to do!" her mother exclaimed. "What on earth will you do now? Your father has a sinking mortgage in need of cash; nothing but sordid poverty lies ahead of us."

"I think she's well rid of the worthless puppy," Mr. Rutledge declared, but Caroline's statement caused him uneasiness, for like his wife, he had considered Caroline set, had felt relieved not to have to trouble himself over her future support.

Caroline's eyes veiled for an instant as she thought of the old debt from what it was—to be talking of her broken engagement like this—quite as though it were nothing more than the loss of money while all the time her heart was draining dry of hope for any happiness.

"You've never liked Howard," she said to her mother. "You don't believe in him. I should think you'd be glad I'm not going to marry him."

Alva went a little more before she answered. "You believed in him," she said, "and I don't know how your father can provide for you—unless you are willing to live in... in that dreadful part of town. But you didn't know how terribly everything has changed when you quarreled with Howard. You did quarrel with him, didn't you?"

"I suppose so," Caroline answered bleakly, "but it wouldn't have mattered about the crash, how complete it was. We'd have broken anyway."

Her father started to speak, hesitated, then said doubtfully: "Lovers' quarrels can be mended, you know, if you're very unhappy over it."

Caroline's hands clenched at her sides. How fearfully they wanted to marry her off! "I am unhappy over it," she began steadily, "because I love him. But he isn't worth it and we won't make up our quarrel. But you two needn't worry about me. I'll take care of myself."

Her voice had risen, it broke. She turned and ran from the room, getting out of their presence, out of the house. Upstairs she dressed hurriedly, then slipped out of a side door into the garage and a few minutes later was tearing down the winding drive toward the magnificent chestnut trees at a reckless speed in her new red roadster.

She took no thought of where she was going, following the first impulse that came into her mind. Then suddenly she wanted to be away from traffic, turned to a cross-road and continued on it until she was well off the much-traveled highway.

The road had had after a few miles, filled with ruts that held the mud of winter and early spring rains. The car bounced heavily along as Caroline paid little heed to where she steered it. But presently, after hitting a particularly deep rut, she felt the sickening motion that meant she had a flat tire.

Ahead of her was a rise, free of ruts; she drove to the crest of it and looked about her. Not a house was in sight.

For half an hour she sat in the car, trying to keep up the courage she needed to face the future, before anyone approached. Then she saw, far down the road in the direction she had come, a solitary figure coming toward her. As the distance between them lessened she saw that it was a man of nondescript appearance. A dog with dragging tail walked behind him. The man's gait was slouchy and Caroline noted that his course was erratic.

She would not have appealed to him for help but he saw the flat tire, saw too that she was alone in the car and came to a stop beside her. "Want some help, lady?" he asked, leaning familiarly into her face.

Caroline eyed the man coolly. "No thanks," she answered in a crisp voice.

"Just as you say," he agreed, "but they ain't no sense in us sitting here waiting. To other end of this road's down by the river. Ain't nobody comin' along here these days 'ceptin' me. An' I ain't passin' often."

Caroline thought he might be telling the truth. Not once since she left the highway had she passed a car. She gave him a keen look. He had been drinking, yes, but he did not appear to be too intoxicated to handle tools.

"Can you change a tire?" she asked.

"Sure 'nough."

"All right. Go ahead. The tools you'll need are in the back. Here's the key."

She kept her seat while he got out the things he wanted and started to work. With some little trouble he got the car jacked up and a spare tire out of its well but there his efforts stuck at a snag.

Caroline became impatient, got out of the car to see what was the matter and decided she'd have to supervise the job. The man tried to do as she directed, but he was clumsy and inept to a degree that exasperated the girl. She was obliged finally to lend a hand. While she was thus engaged her two-skinned silver fox scarf slipped to the ground. She absent-mindedly picked it up and tossed it toward the open window of the roadster. She missed and it fell to the running-board.

About ten minutes later the job was finished. Caroline turned toward the car to get her handbag and realized with a shock that she had neglected to bring one along. She had no money to pay the man. With her mind on this unpleasant circumstance she failed to see that her fox scarf had disappeared.

She faced him and said quietly: "If you will give me your name and address I'll send you two dollars for your work."

The man stared at her blankly. Then, "What's the idea?" he asked. "I haven't any money with me."

At first he was disinclined to believe her, thinking she might be in fear of him. But she convinced him finally that she was telling the truth. To her dismay he rejected her offer to send the money to him by post and suggested that she take him back to town with her and pay him as soon as she got the money.

He had stepped up toward the car, stood close to her as he said this. The look of liquor on his breath was unconsciously strong. Caroline was averse to riding in the roadster with him in the seat next to her.

"If you are not willing to wait for your money I shall pay you only a dollar," she said firmly.

The man's face took on an unpleasant expression as his piggy eyes glared at her. "I got to walk three miles for my mail," he said heavily.

"But it's more than three miles back here from my home," Caroline pointed out to him.

"I get off the bus at Harley's Corner and cut across field. It's less 'an three miles that way from town."

"But I live..." she stopped abruptly.

"I guess the likes of you can get some money from a bank," the man said, grinning. He moved to get into the car.

Caroline saw that he was determined to leave town with money to spend, she suspected.

"I'm not going to argue with you," she said coldly. "It isn't convenient for me to take you into town. I shall add fifty cents more to the two dollars for your trouble in walking the three miles. Where shall I send it, please, and what is your name?"

A look of ugly resentment filled the piggy eyes now as the man answered her. "I got you, lady," he said sneeringly. "I ain't fitte for you to ride with. You're one of them as always has money to buy what you want. Well, I ain't told you my name and I ain't gonna tell you, 'cause you're gonna ride me into town and gimme that money without no talkin' about it."

His tone and manner were threatening. Caroline lost her assurance. Further argument, she saw, was useless and possibly dangerous.

"No, unless you prefer the ride to this," she said as easily as she could, and unfastened her wrist-watch, which she held out to him with a gesture of finality.

"Hey, that ain't no bad," the man stammered as he took it. Then suspiciously: "But you gotta remember that you gimme it."

"Of course," she said decisively, and started to get into the car. The man drew away. "I got you, lady," he said sneeringly, remembering her scarf, and looked about for it. It was not on the running board or anywhere about the car.

Caroline heard the man say: "Damn that dern dog, and looked up to follow his gaze down the road. There was her scarf, in the teeth of the dog as he lay resting from his labor of trying to shake the skins to pieces.

He ran to rescue it. The dog seemed to think she had come to share in his game and took it up again. The man approached and kicked at him brutally, spoiling his fun. He dropped the fur piece and slunk away.

Caroline picked it up, muddy and damaged. As she started back to the car she saw that her new blue suit was spotted and streaked with mud from the dog's paws.

Suddenly the mounting flood of her self-lit anger engulfed her. She choked over a sob in her throat, flew to the car, jumped in, maneuvered a turn and roared away, leaving the man gaping after her, thankful that she had not insisted upon holding him responsible for the damage to her property.

First Census Of Service Is Announced

Full-Time Employment Peak Is Reached In June

The results of the first census of service establishments and places of amusement, taken as part of the Census of American Business in the State of Illinois have been released by William L. Austin, director, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce.

There were 52,797 service establishments and places of amusement in the state in 1933, which reported total receipts of $194,391,256, Director Austin said. These establishments gave employment to an average of 32,631 full-time employees, 16,550 part-time employees, and 35,642 proprietors. The total payroll (exclusive of compensation of proprietors) aggregated $48,232,586, of which $11,560,642 was paid to full-time employees, and $6,671,944 to part-time employees.

The peak for full-time employment was reached in June, which showed an improvement of 26 per cent (based on the average for the year), as compared with the low of January, and for part-time employment the peak was in November, when it was 27 per cent higher than the low of January.

For purposes of this census the classification "service establishments" include places of business performing personal service for the public such as barber shops, beauty parlors, shoe shine parlors, laundry agencies, and similar establishments. It also includes business services such as advertising agencies, dental laboratories, delivery services, etc., and mechanical repair services such as locksmiths and gunsmiths, typewriter repair shops, bicycle and motorcycle repair shops, and other classes of shops making mechanical repairs. The census does not include doctors, lawyers, dentists, and others performing professional and scientific services. Automobile repair shops are treated as retail establishments and not as service establishments since a large portion of this business represents the sale of parts. All places of amusement serving the public for revenue such as theatres, amusement parks, shooting galleries, dance halls, etc., are included in the survey.

Morgan Survey

According to the survey the net receipts for Morgan county from 121 establishments were $425,597; proprietors, 140; full time employees, 102; part time employees 29; salaries for full time employees $91,306; part time employees $8,167.

News Notes

Just how hard wild bees can sting in hot weather was demonstrated several evenings ago at the farm of Harry Johnson in Otter Creek Township where several Jerseyville business men were initiated into the mysteries of cutting a bee tree.

Last autumn Harry Johnson and Sam Cowdrey discovered a bee tree but it was so late in the year that they decided to let it alone until the following season.

This year the honey makers filled the cavity in the tree and began making comb about the opening. Since there was no chance for more honey to be sealed in the place, it was decided to cut the tree now instead of waiting for the customary cold
